Definitions

Welcome to Country

The Welcome to Country ceremony is an acknowledgment and recognition of the rights of Aboriginal people. The act of getting a representative who has traditional local links to a particular place, area or region, is an acknowledgement of respect for traditional owners. It is respect for rights, respect for people and a respect for country. The waterway, land and cultural significant sites are still very important to Aboriginal people. It is an acknowledgement of the past and provide a safe passage for visitors and a mark of respect (South West Aboriginal Land & Sea Council 2016).

A Welcome to Country occurs at the beginning of a formal event and can take many forms including dancing, singing, smoking ceremonies or a speech in traditional language or English (Reconciliation Australia, 2017).

Acknowledgment of Country

An Acknowledgment of Country is a way that non-Aboriginal people can show respect for Aboriginal heritage and the ongoing relationship of traditional owners with the land (South West Aboriginal Land & Sea Council 2016).
